APKD NEWS-AT-A-GLANCE

On October 29 an important paper came out in The Lancet from esteemed philosopher Peter Singer. The manuscript is strongly supportive of our work in Global Kidney Exchange. Excerpt from the article: "Worldwide, deaths from kidney failure number in the millions. In High-Income Countries (HICs), like the US and Australia, a shortage of available organs is the main reason why people are unable to obtain the matching kidney transplant they need in time. In Low and Medium-Income Countries (LMICs), people die because they cannot afford kidney failure treatments. And this is where the Global Kidney Exchange (GKE) program comes in. It aims to expand the donor pool by facilitating the exchange of kidneys between donor-recipient pairs in High-Income and Low and Medium-Income Countries, enabling more patients in HICs to find a match and more people in Low- Income countries to get a transplant they could otherwise not afford." Read in full at www.thelancet.com/journals/lancet/article/PIIS0140-6736\(19\)32474-232474-2)

Dr. Rees spoke at the Asian Society of Transplantation in October. While overseas, he helped eight transplantation centers in three countries begin their own kidney exchange programs using APKD software. Dr. Rees' continual efforts multiply the number of pairs in the exchange, which results in a higher percentage of possible matches for kidney patients both at home and abroad.
